

Lesson 2

What Do You See?

Group Icebreakers:

- What makes people different from you?
- How would you go about trying to change someone's mind?

Introduction:

The world outside a baby's home is strange and different to him. It is an uncomfortable place, lacking the security of home. Baby cries easily, everything is unfamiliar and foreign. But it is into this hostile environment that his parents bring him. He needs to become acquainted with the surroundings and people that his parents so easily mingle with. Jesus takes His new disciples there too.

Jesus' disciples are Jews from the Galilee, along the northern shores of the Sea of Galilee. They are a provincial people. Three times a year they make a pilgrimage to Jerusalem to attend the feasts of the Lord. Their customary route takes them the easy way, through the Jordan River valley. The valley is wide, well watered and fertile. And the route takes them around the land of the Samaritans, which lies between their homes and Jerusalem. To them, the land of the Samaritans¹ is the home of detestable people, who don't know the true God and with whom Jews have little dealings.

In early spring, the disciples go with Jesus to the feast of Passover in Jerusalem. There they remain for a while, in the friendly environs around Jerusalem. The area is Judea, the southern part of the land of Israel. They minister to the provincial people of the area and baptize some. This period probably lasts until the time of the second feast of the year that they attend in Jerusalem. The feast is called "Weeks" because it occurs seven weeks after Passover.

The time is late spring. It is getting hot. Jesus suddenly decides to return to the Galilee. This time he takes the disciples by the shorter route, through Samaria. The journey through the mountains is arduous and unfamiliar. Compared with the valley route, it is an arid region of rocky, wind swept hills with little shade and water. They stop at the village of Sychar. Gerizim, the Mount of Blessing and Ebal, the Mount of Cursing rise above it to the west. It is the place of the patriarch Jacob's well. It's noontime. It's time for a lunch break. It's time for Jesus to have an encounter with a woman who comes to the well. It's time to change the way His disciples view the world.

Reading the Scripture:

The Woman at the Well

John 4:1-42

Scripture excerpts from "Follow Me: A Message from God"

When therefore the Lord knew that the Pharisees had heard that Jesus was making and baptizing more disciples than John (although Jesus Himself was not baptizing, but His disciples were), He left Judea, and departed again into Galilee. And He had to pass through

Samaria. So He came to a city of Samaria, called Sychar, near the parcel of ground that Jacob gave to his son Joseph; and Jacob's well was there.² Jesus therefore, being wearied from His journey, was sitting thus by the well. It was about the sixth hour.³ There came a woman of Samaria to draw water. Jesus said to her, "Give Me a drink." For His disciples had gone away into the city to buy food. The Samaritan woman therefore said to Him, "How is it that You, being a Jew, ask me for a drink since I am a Samaritan woman?" (For Jews have no dealings with Samaritans.) Jesus answered and said to her, "If you knew the gift of God, and who it is who says to you, 'Give Me a drink,' you would have asked Him, and He would have given you living water.⁴" She said to Him, "Sir, You have nothing to draw with and the well is deep; where then do You get that living water? "You are not greater than our father Jacob, are You, who gave us the well, and drank of it himself, and his sons, and his cattle?" Jesus answered and said to her, "Everyone who drinks of this water shall thirst again; but whoever drinks of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall become in him a well of water springing up to eternal life." The woman said to Him, "Sir, give me this water, so I will not be thirsty, nor come all the way here to draw." He said to her, "Go, call your husband, and come here." The woman answered and said, "I have no husband." Jesus said to her, "You have well said, 'I have no husband'; for you have had five husbands, and the one whom you now have is not your husband; this you have said truly." The woman said to Him, "Sir, I perceive that You are a prophet. Our fathers worshipped in this mountain⁵ and you people say that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship." Jesus said to her, "Woman, believe Me, an hour is coming when neither in this mountain, nor in Jerusalem, shall you worship the Father. You worship that which you do not know; we worship that which we know, for salvation is from the Jews. But an hour is coming, and now is, when the true worshipers shall worship the Father in spirit and truth;⁶ for such people the Father seeks to be His worshipers. God is spirit, and those who worship Him must worship in spirit and truth." The woman said to Him, "I know that Messiah is coming (He who is called Christ); when that One comes, He will declare all things to us." Jesus said to her, "I who speak to you am He." And at this point His disciples came, and they marveled that He had been speaking with a woman; yet no one said, "What do You seek?" or, "Why do You speak with her?" So the woman left her waterpot, and went into the city, and said to the men, "Come, see a man who told me all the things that I have done; this is not the Christ, is it?" They went out of the city, and were coming to Him. In the meanwhile the disciples were requesting Him, saying, "Rabbi, eat." But He said to them, "I have food to eat that you do not know about." The disciples therefore were saying to one another, "No one brought Him anything to eat, did he?" Jesus said to them, "My food is to do the will of Him who sent Me, and to accomplish His work. Do you not say, 'There are yet four months, and then comes the harvest'? Behold, I say to you, lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, that they are white for harvest. Already he who reaps is receiving wages, and is gathering fruit for life eternal; that he who sows and he who reaps may rejoice together. "For in this case the saying is true, 'One sows, and another reaps.' I sent you to reap that for which you have not labored; others have labored, and you have entered into their labor." And from that city many of the Samaritans believed in Him because of the word of the woman who testified, "He told

² Near the parcel of ground that Jacob gave to his son Joseph; and Jacob's well was there. – see article on page 5 (“Shechem – Jesus’ “Vision Tour” of the Messianic Era”).

³ Sixth hour. About noon.

⁴ Living water. The term means running water from a spring or stream. It speaks more of a continuous supply rather than stored water.

⁵ Mountain. Mount Gerizim.

⁶ Spirit and truth. “Glory in Christ Jesus and put no confidence in the flesh.” Philippians 3:3

me all the things that I have done." So when the Samaritans came to Him, they were asking Him to stay with them; and He stayed there two days. And many more believed because of His word; and they were saying to the woman, "It is no longer because of what you said that we believe, for we have heard for ourselves and know that this One is indeed the Savior of the world."

The Command:

- ❖ Lift up your eyes and look on the fields, that they are white for harvest.

The Lesson:

The lesson Jesus teaches deals with the powers of observation. The disciples are used to seeing, understanding and applying physical laws in the natural world that surrounds them. Jesus challenges them to see differently. He wants their powers of observation to extend to the spiritual.

Jesus opens His teaching with the statement. "Do you not say, 'There are yet four months, and then comes the harvest.'" The disciple's worldly thinking processes take over. It's May, the people have recently planted their cotton, it will take four more months for the crop to grow and they will harvest it in September. But then Jesus says, "Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, that they are white for harvest."

As the disciples turn to look at the fields they don't see a cotton crop ready to be harvested. But in the distance they see men, dressed in white robes running towards them, across the fields. Jesus is talking about men, not cotton, a harvest of men's souls. The harvest is beginning now, not at the end of the age during the final great harvest. The disciple's minds struggle to make spiritual connections.

Jesus continues. "Already he who reaps is receiving wages and is gathering fruit for life eternal; that he who sows and he who reaps may rejoice together. For in this case the saying is true, 'One sows, and another reaps.' I sent you to reap that for which you have not labored; others have labored, and you have entered into their labor."

The disciples begin thinking about sowing and reaping. Put a seed in the ground and a plant comes up in its place. A person plants and a person harvests. The plants always contain more seed. We save some of the seed to sow for the next crop and use the rest for food and other things. It's all very familiar to us.

Slowly the Scriptures come to their minds. They had seen men running across the fields to Jesus. Yes! It was in the scroll of Isaiah concerning Messiah. *"Behold, you will call a nation you do not know, and a nation which knows you not will run to you, because of the LORD your God, even the Holy One of Israel; for He has glorified you."*⁷ And the part about sowing and reaping is in Isaiah too. Only it's about God's word. *"For as the rain and the snow come down from heaven, and do not return there without watering the earth, and making it bear and sprout, and furnishing seed to the sower and bread to the eater; so shall My word be which goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me empty, without accomplishing what I desire, and without succeeding in the matter for which I sent it."*⁸

⁸ Isaiah 55:10-11

Now the disciples are beginning to understand what Jesus is talking about. Those who had come before Messiah, the patriarchs, Moses, David and the prophets, sowed the seed of the word of God concerning the Messiah. They sowed by speaking of the coming of Messiah, His kingdom and the salvation of men. Everyone who comes after the Messiah is to reap the harvest of souls. They reap by witnessing that Messiah, His kingdom and the salvation of men has come. And both groups of people will rejoice together in the kingdom of God.

Group Discussion:

1. What barriers might we have to overcome to see fields ready for harvest?
2. What are some ways that a person might initiate a spiritual conversation from observing people in their daily routines? (An example: A person looks at his watch to see what time a day it is. Asking any of the following questions would initiate a spiritual conversation. "Will a time come when God judges people? When will the world end? Can a person live forever? How many years do you have left in your life?")

The Point of the Lesson:

Be observant of people around you it may lead to a spiritual encounter.

Application:

1. Observe people in their daily routines. Think of some things that you might ask them in order to initiate a spiritual conversation. Write down your observations and the questions you could ask them. Share them at the next group meeting.
2. Take someone at the church you don't know well to lunch or dinner.

Shechem

Jesus' "Vision Tour" of the Messianic Era

What did this city represent that was so significant for Jesus to take His disciples to, and what was Jesus revealing of Himself in this encounter, especially as it related to the Feast of Shavuot (Weeks, aka Pentecost, 50-days following the Feast of First Fruits)? Following is a brief snapshot of its history, which will open the door to answering these two questions:

Shechem (meaning, "shoulder") was and is a prototype of the Messianic Era (Revelation 11:15, 20:6), leading to Eternity, as we saw played out through Bible history, from the very first stop, "the place of Shechem, to the oak of Moreh" (Genesis 12:6) upon Abram's arrival into the Promise Land (Genesis 17:6-8), giving us a picture of faith (meaning, "practicing loyalty to God" – "You see that faith was active along with Abraham's works, and faith was completed by Abraham's works," James 2:22; Genesis 26:4-5) in action, as Abram's destiny began its transformation as an "exalted father" (Abram) to "a father of many" (Abraham), as a sojourner/stranger in a foreign land, establishing his faith in the "One True God" under "the oak of Moreh" (meaning, "teacher, fruitful, early rain (living water), law (torah)," symbolizing a teacher of salvation and healing), giving us a future picture of a Messiah who would one day call out sojourners/strangers in a foreign land, Samaria (a region known as a watch-tower in Hebrew, and divine city of Refuge (Joshua 20:7-8)), to stand on the shoulders (Shechem) of a Divine Teacher of salvation and healing (Moreh), who too, would begin a transformation of sojourners/stranger in a foreign land, to answering and following a call from God, to becoming a chosen and called out people, walking in faith into a land Promised by God, throughout all of Millennial, toward the ultimate Promised Land, the "New Jerusalem":

"Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more.² And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.³ And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, 'Behold, the dwelling place of God is with man. He will dwell with them, and they will be his people, and God himself will be with them as their God.'" Revelation 21:1-3

But the Shechem story does not end there, we see many years later, when the entire family was already in Egypt, Jacob, who had purchased a plot of land on the perimeter of the town of Shechem (Genesis 33:19), later promising this portion of land to Joseph (Genesis 48:1-6, 22), the son whom he favored and loved above all his other sons (Genesis 37:3). It is this story that gives us a Divinely inspired prototype of a prophesied future suffering Messiah/Savior of the world, in a very paralleling presentation of Joseph's life and the life of Yeshua (Jesus, meaning in Hebrew, "salvation"), of a divine calling (Genesis 37:9-10, 41:37-46), riddled with years of rejection, initially by his own brothers, in the city of Shechem, culminating in Joseph personally realizing the divine dreams of his childhood (Genesis 37:1-11) and of the leader of all of Egypt, Pharaoh (Genesis 41:1-36), a biblical picture/representation of the kingdoms of this world, of himself becoming the facilitator of the one who would save the world, from an orchestrated world famine from God above, as well as symbolically, a representation of a famine of the Word of God, God Himself, in the hearts of men, which God had designed to draw mankind back to Himself, finishing with Joseph revealing himself to his own brothers (Genesis 45), who jealously rejected Joseph's calling and message initially (Genesis 37:12-36), to a moment in his brothers second chance for redemption and restoration, which they receive with open arms. It is in this act of redemption and restoration that Joseph's family are then placed in a city called Goshen, in Egypt, (Genesis 45:1-9) which God chose for His chosen people to be protected from God's wrath, leading to Joseph's request that his bones not rest in Egypt, but taken to and buried in the Promised Land (Joshua 24:32), as promised by God to Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and every generation of God's chosen people until the ultimate Promised Land of Eternity, "the holy city, New Jerusalem," (Revelation 21:1-3) representative and symbolical of Joseph's request to carry his bones into the Promise Land, futuristically speaking of all of God's chosen peoples future Promised Land, Eternity with Him, as promised (Numbers 23:19). In addition, like Joshua (in Hebrew, Yehoshua, meaning "Yahweh is salvation"), the prototype of the fulfiller of these divinely designed promises, the one God chose and ordained to take His people into the Promise Land (Joshua 1:1-18), and not Moses, though even Joshua himself was unable to fully realize God's promise of a completely conquered Promised Land (Joshua 13:1), but before his passing, Joshua gathered God's people in Shechem and made a covenant between them and God, setting up a stone in Shechem, on a promise in which God will fulfill, "His Word," saying, "Behold, this stone shall be a witness against us, for it has heard all the words." (Joshua 24:25)

Now we can get a more full picture of why Jesus chose Shechem as His "Vision Tour" for His Disciples, of their future Promise and ultimate mission, a picture and prototype of the Messianic Era, leading to Eternity, a city truly rich in Messianic prophecies and foreshadowing, and a people, from Samaria, a region known as a watch-tower in Hebrew, and divine city of Refuge (Joshua 20:7-8), a city representing:

1. "Shechem" and "the oak tree of Moreh," symbolic of shoulders on which a Divine Teacher of salvation and healing would one day come and transform sojourners/strangers in a foreign land, to answering and following a call from God, to becoming a chosen and called out people, walking in faith into a land Promised by God, to the ultimate Promised Land, the "New Jerusalem" (Eternity). (Genesis 12:1-3; Revelation 21:1-3)
2. A story of a divinely called savior of the world, rejected by his own brother, but ultimately delivering his brothers out of spiritual blindness and famine, into God's divine plan of salvation, and yet at the same time, even in his death, Joseph, keeps God's people focused on an eternal promise, through his command to not bury him in Egypt, a picture of the kingdoms of this world, but in the Promise Land, and specifically, a piece of land purchased by his father Jacob, whose name and destiny was changed to Israel (originally from a name (Jacob) meaning, "supplanter" or simply defined as, someone or something who takes over another's role (to seek to replace the original source, and they do so intentionally), to the name Israel, meaning, "one who wrestles with God and man and prevails" or simply defined as, becoming more than an overcomer) on the perimeter of the town of Shechem. (Acts 1:6-11; Zechariah 12:10-11, 14:4)
3. Concluding with a man named Joshua (in Hebrew, Yehoshua, meaning "Yahweh is salvation"), a prototype of a future conquering leader (Yeshua, in Hebrew meaning, "salvation"), making a covenant between God and His people, by setting up a stone in Shechem, declaring that as God's people continue to walk and stand faithfully on the shoulders of the teaching and instruction of the covenant of "the One-true God," setting up a stone in Shechem, on the promise in which God will fulfill, "His Word." (Matthew 16:13-20)
4. And finally, why did Yeshua choose to reveal Himself to His Disciples and the Samaritan people during the season of the Feast of Weeks (aka Pentecost)? It was during this Appointed time of the Lord that God originally gave His Torah (meaning, the teaching and instruction of God, the Law) on Mount Saini, symbolically representing God's life and destiny for them, to lead them to the Promise Land, both literally and supernaturally, as well as the futuristic beginning of God's promised outpouring of His renewed covenant, "living water" as Jesus describes it to the Samaritan Woman, "whoever drinks of the water that I will give will never be thirsty again . . . and . . . will become in them a spring of water welling up to eternal life," (John 4:13-15) as prophesied in Jeremiah 31:31-34, where God says, "I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts . . . and no longer shall each one teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, 'Know the Lord,' for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, declares the Lord," speaking of this promise not being completely fulfilled until the end of the Millennial Reign of our Messiah, when truly, "they shall all know me (God)."

This was the "Vision Tour" Yeshua wanted to showcase for His Disciples, of their future Promise and ultimate mission, establishing the "Kingdom of God" in the hearts of men, a picture and prototype of the futuristic Messianic Era, leading to Eternity, a city not of this world, but the "new Jerusalem" (meaning, "foundation of peace"), once again, as pictured and symbolized in and through this city called Shechem, ordained by God, to be a watch-tower and city of refuge, on which, one day would stand, on its shoulders (Shechem) a Divine Teacher of salvation and healing who would come and transform sojourners/strangers in a foreign land, to answering and following a call from God, to becoming a chosen and called out people, walking in faith into a land Promised by God (Eternity). (Genesis 12:1-3; Revelation 21:1-3)

Lesson 17

Learn what Jesus teaches us to do, what it means and how it is applied to our lives today as we walk by the Spirit!

Fishers of Men . . . introduces Christians to the subject of becoming disciples of Jesus Christ and covers the first 17 lessons He taught His disciples. Beginning with His command to “Follow Me,” Jesus lays a solid foundation of instructions for developing the character of Christ within individuals.

- Jesus’ teachings have completely transformed my life. (M.M.)
- Jesus invites you to walk with Him and learn from Him. (J.G.)
- I have been going to church for over 30 years and have never heard anything like this before. Why don’t churches teach this? (J.R.)

Upon coming to faith in Jesus Christ at age 33, Michael Gibson earnestly wanted someone to disciple him in the faith. Finding no one . . . he became a student, and then teacher of God’s word.

One statement in particular captured his attention, “Go . . . make disciples . . . baptizing them . . . teaching them to observe all that I commanded you.” (Matthew 28:19-20) From that he wrote his first book, “Follow Me” (1996), a compilation of the four gospels into one account while highlighting each of the 263 instructions Jesus commanded His disciples to do and teach. Subsequently, he has written the three-part teaching series, “A Journey with Jesus” and many other books which help equip believers to do the work of the ministry.
